Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1, 2, 6, 7, and 21-39 are allowed.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The independent claims of Applicant's invention recite a method of communicating between trading partners. Information is input into a plurality of tables, the tables containing specific types of information, and then that information is sent from a first trading partner to a second trading partner.

Jain (U.S. Patent No. 6,993,506) discloses a system and method of sending XML messages containing extended data attributes to a trading partner. Jain further teaches storing information in databases. Jain does not teach the exact arrangement of data as expressed by the claimed tables. According to the Decision rendered by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences on 6/14/2010, the Board concludes that the arrangement of this data would not be known to those skilled in the art, and therefore one skilled in the art would not find it obvious to modify the teachings of Jain to store data according to any arrangement of tables. Therefore, according to the Board Decision, the inputting of data into tables and sending of data between 2 parties is found to be novel and allowable as long as the arrangement of the data is not arranged by another in the same manner before the filing of the invention. As there are no other teachings of the exact arrangement and format of the tables as in Applicant's invention, this application is found to be allowable.

The claims overcome 35 U.S.C. 101 as each step in all independent claims are tied to a computer.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
